Today's Bordeaux: 100 Classic, Contemporary, and Affordable Wines were chosen by an independent expert jury comprised of Mary Ewing-Mulligan, MW, President of International Wine Center; Daniel Johnnes, Wine Director of Dinex Group; and Kevin Zraly, author and educator of Windows on the World Wine School. These wine experts tasted more than 300 wines blind, including red and white, sweet and dry, nominated by retailers and importers across the country.

Bordeaux is internationally recognized as the standard by which Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot and Sauvignon Blanc are judged. "Approximately eighty to eighty-five percent of our production is in the $8-$25 price ranges," said Christian Delpuch, president of the CIVB and Director General of Ginestet, a major Bordeaux négociant. "This is wine for every budget and all occasions."
